

A | The beginning

They were the first people in North America. Exactly they came and they arrived it's still a But many scientists believe that as long as years ago some from Asia walk or along the coast of a land bridge that once connected to Their decedents became known as native Americans or As they across the vast continent Native Americans adapted to living in different and hundreds of were born.

(...)

B | The arrival of white settlers

When the arrived in the 1500s, about Native Americans lived north of Mexico. But the changed everything. from Europe such as and wiped out entire tribes. Settlers began to Indian lands for themselves. Some tribes and back. Others to cooperate. In the end, the result was the same. In the late, the US government forced the to leave their traditional and live on tracks of land called ".....". Over the next century, native Americans continue to fight for their rights through (..)

C | Today's situation

Today there are more than 550 federally recognized tribes in the United States. Native Americans are working to improve living conditions on the reservations, and to preserve their languages, religions and cultural identities. (...). Other native American artists are reviving their tribes' traditional artform – a movement which could help these survive into the next

